HARDING STANDS PAT ON BONUS

Refuses to Lead House Leaders Out of Tangle

IS UP TO CONGRESS

Does Not Object to the New Bill That Is Up Today

WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Harding today refused to make any new recommendations that might lead republican house leaders out of the soldier bonus tangle. In a conference with house leaders, lasting nearly two hours, the President said in view of his previous statements he had no further suggestions to offer and that full responsibility for any future action must rest with congress.

As a result the bonus was shunted back on the shoulders of congress.

After conference, Republican Leader Mondell indicated the President did not object very strenuously to the new bill.

Whether the bill will be taken up in the house today under a gag rule probably will be determined at a conference of Speaker Gillett with Harding, which was held immediately after the meeting of the other house leaders.

A statement for the press was framed in the first conference and was issued by Representative Mondell. It reads:

"The legislative situation relating to the bonus bill was fully presented to the President, with detailed explanation of the provisions which remove the menace of excessive drafts on the treasury in the immediate future and avoid any program of added taxation. The President went over the entire situation with an apparaisal of commitments made. He advised the committee that the legislation is the responsibility of congress and in view of the expressions previously made he did not think it essential to offer any recommendations."

Following the White House conference, Speaker Gillett blocked temporarily a test, the passage of the soldier bonus bill through the house. He announced just before the house met that he would refuse to recognize Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee for a motion to pass the bill under the gag rule.

Gillett's stand means that the bill probably will be brought up under a special rule, which will give the cash bonus advocates a chance to make a final effort to include cash paymenst in the bill. Under the gag rule no debate would have been possible.

CHRISTIAN CALL CONFERENCE TO BE BIG EVENT

Geo. Gleason, Dr. White and Dr. Bird to Speak

Among the speakers at the "Christian Calling Conference" which is to be held in this city March 25 and 26, will be George Gleason, who for fifteen years has been doing "Y" work in Japan and who came to America to act as adviser to the Japanese delegates at the peace conference. Dr. Gustav White, who during the four years of war was a worker in Berlin, and Dr. Bird, of Occidental College, will also be speakers.

The public is not asked to attend the banquet to delegates the evening of the 25th at the First Methodist church but will be welcome at the mass meeting at 8:45 the next morning and at the closing session at 2 p. m. at the Baptist church.

The aim of the conference is to bring together boys who have expressed a desire to dedicate their lives to some form of Christian or altruistic work.

U. S. COURT RECESSES.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The supreme court today announced a recess from Monday, March 27 to Monday, April 10.

Faith in Your Work and in the World Necessary Adjunct

Faith in your work, in yourself and in the world; these three articles of faith are all important, says James W. Foley in "The Listening Port" tonight. Faith that ridicule cannot destroy, that cynicism cannot shake, that ingratitude cannot weaken and misfortune cannot wreck is the kind of faith that makes for victory but the belief in yourself must be strong to struggle, long to endure and patient to labor.

Freedom of speech got a jolt recently, says Henry James in his comment on the day's news referring to an address by Prof. Scott Nearing which was ordered stopped by the president of the college where the talk was being given. Taking this as his subject Mr. James makes some interesting comment.

An editorial on the love of untruth is worthy your attention tonight. John Pilgrim says he used to envy rich friends but not any more and Della Stewart writes in her usual able manner.

POLICE TO START NEW, KEYNOTE OF FRASER

New Chief Has Man to Man Talk With Staff

The police department will make a new start and all men will either stand or fall according to their own merits, was the keynote of the talk by Chief of Police John D. Fraser to the members of the force at the called meeting of the department in the city hall yesterday afternoon with the new chief.

Police work was discussed by the new chief and his co-workers and a campaign outlined to make the department a credit to Glendale. Chief Fraser told the members of the department that from time to time he may find it necessary to shift the men from one post to another but that in the event that this is done that it will not be from any personal feeling but with a desire to improve the efficiency of the force or the men who are changed. The strong point in his talk was that a man will be promoted or demoted in accordance with his future actions and such promotion or demotion will not be guided by past deeds.

City Manager W. H. Reeves also talked to the men and said that he was pleased to note that there were so many former soldiers on the force. He said that the former soldier generally makes the best police officer because he realizes the necessity of discipline and is willing to carry out the orders and directions of his superior officers.

Mr. Reeves voiced the hope that the members of the department would co-operate with the chief of police and with the city manager in making the department the most effective organization in the city. He said that this could be done only through co-operation and that he and the new chief were willing to co-operate with the men to the fullest extent. He said that as long as the members of the department were in the right that he as city manager and their direct-ing head, the chief of police would back them to the limit.

After the meeting Chief of Police Fraser said that he felt sure that he had the cooperation of every man on the force and that they would work together in the future. He intimated that the meeting on Sunday with the members of the force was not in the nature of a lecture or a way of declaring himself but was a get-acquainted meeting to enable him to meet the men working under him.

POLICE LOCATE STOLEN MACHINE

Owner Goes for it and Finds it Missing Again

Hist! Sh-h-h-h!—and also beware! The Glendale police have uncovered another mystery. This time it is the mystery of the disappearing automobile. Sunday afternoon word was received at the police station that there was an automobile abandoned near the bridge just south of Eagle Rock. The police investigated and through the department in Los Angeles learned that the car was one that had been stolen from Mr. Rosecartne of Los Angeles. Mr. Rosecartne was notified and said that he would call for the car later in the day, and to leave it by the roadside.

About 6 p. m. the telephone rang and Mr. Rosecartne told the desk sergeant that he had gone out to the spot where his car was said to have been and all he found was a few tracks, the car having disappeared. Now the search is on again for the machine.

PRINCESS HASSAN TO BE OBJECT OF $2,500,000 SUIT

A demand of $2,500,000 for legal services in securing half of $10,000,000 from the estate of the late Prince Hassan for his American wife, formerly Olga Humphrey, well-known actress, has been made by Herman L. Roth, New York theatrical lawyer. Roth was engaged to secure a divorce for the princess, he says, and employed high-priced Paris lawyers to aid him. But the prince died before the divorce was granted. Princess Hassan, who had returned to America, still was his legal wife. She inherited $5,000,000, half of the estate left by Prince Hassan. Charging that the Princess Hassan agreed to split "fifty-fifty" with him any money realized from court actions against the prince, Roth brought suit. Princess Hassan resides in California.

Own Your Own Home Week

Governor Stephens has issued the following proclamation declaring this week an "Own Your Home and Build Now Week" throughout the state:

"Whereas, there exists in California and its rapidly growing cities and towns a very great shortage of housing, I deem this moment opportune to call upon the people of the state of California to co-operate with their local realty boards, chambers of commerce, boards of trade and civic, business and industrial interests of their communities to relieve this pressing need for more homes.

"The campaign for more housing accommodations is vitally essential to the welfare and continued development of our state. California is essentially a state for the homeseeker and I believe that we are furthering the development of our own state and conserving the best interests of our people when we urge recognition by the pulpit, the school, the press and the business and industrial world of the state-wide 'own your own home' movement.

"Particularly when industry and commerce need every helpful stimulus to revive business on a widespread scale, so we need to encourage and foster every enterprise that looks to development of our home industries. Building now will be helpful in every way to the investor as well as to the artisan and financier.

"Therefore, in recognition of the splendid work that the realtors of California are doing through the California Real Estate association in behalf of home owning and city building, I decree and designate that the week of Sunday, March 19, 1922, shall be known in California as 'Own Your Home and Build Now' week, and I most earnestly call upon all interested in this great work to give due support and encouragement to the campaign, that the demand for houses may be relieved and especially increased in every community."

WEIRD LOVE TALE HALTS BUTLER'S DEPORTATION

Insists Affections of Society Girl Cause a Trail of Misfortune

NEW YORK, March 20.—Federal courts have halted deportation of August Probst, a Swiss, formerly a butler at the Rolling Rock club at Ligonier, Pa., and his story of how he was being "railroaded" from the country to break up his romance with a Washington heiress, prominent in social and official circles, will be heard here today.

A writ of habeas corpus signed by Federal Judge Mack caused removal of Probst from Ellis Island. His attorneys blocked his deportation at the eleventh hour.

Probst, who alleges he was driven from the Rolling Rock club at the point of a pistol by officials of the club after his romance with the wealthy young heiress had continued for several months, was declared insane February 28. His attorneys allege he is perfectly sane and of high intelligence, having held responsible positions.

The heiress is said to have refused all appeals to give up her butler-suitor. Probst charges he was forced into a stable at the club, locked in and later driven in an automobile and kept prisoner in a flat for three days. He says he was constantly threatened with death if he communicated with anyone at the Rolling Rock club.

Plans to send him to Europe failed, the butler said, after the Swiss consul had refused to vise his passport. Then he was released, he said, and sent to Trenton, N. J. There, he said, his rooms were entered by an "inspector" with a telegraphci warrant signed by the assistant secretary of labor at Washington.

The butler said that two physicians then declared him insane and that his deportation was arranged.

Probst said he was engaged to the heiress. He described how the course of true love changed their relations from that of employe and guest to affection and love.

A Pittsburgh society girl, chum of the one in question, arranged clandestine meetings, according to Probst.

SEC. HOOVER REACHES L. A.

Final California Hearing on Boulder Canyon Opens Here

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover arrived here today from the Imperial Valley. The final hearings in California on the great Boulder Canyon dam project will open here this afternoon with Hoover presiding.

"I am greatly pleased that the people of the southwest have taken such a keen interest in development of the Colorado river, and particularly the Boulder canyon dam project," Hoover said.

Members of the Colorado river commission here with the Hoover party include State Water Commissioner Norviel of Arizona, Col. J. G. Scrugham of Nevada, E. C. Caldwell of Utah; W. F. McClure of California; Frank W. Emerson of Wyoming; D. E. Carpenter of Colorado and Governor W. C. Mechem of New Mexico.

Woman Ingersoll At University Clocks Religion

BERKELEY, Cal., March 20.—A co-ed whom one local pastor has declared to be a "woman Robert Ingersoll" has come to light on the University of California campus, and her writings have been the subject of widespread discussion by Berkeley pastors.

The girl is Patricia Gray, and the article in question appeared in the "Occident," the literary magazine. Miss Gray's article satirized church-going folk, dubbing them "dullards following the conventional religious track in a sheep-like way." In a number of subtle points, she cast doubt on the sincerity of their worship. The article was called "Today is Sunday."

"The article is a God-send," declared Rev. O.W .S. McCall, of the First Congregational church. "Years ago Robert Ingersoll in a similar manner helped to laugh and ridicule and scold and blister us ministers and church folk into more sanity. We will be sort of uncomfortably glad if Miss Gray will whip us where she sees us fooling with work we conceive to be important. The article is prime as entertainment, clever as caricature, tragic as experience, but as a total estimate it is cheap."

"If Miss Gray had put the energy into trying to understand the creed of the congregation that she did in preparing an overdone satire, her doubts and questionings would have been settled," declared Rev. W. R. Hodgkin of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

MONTE VISTA HOME MAKES $303.75 IN DRIVE

Tag Day for Charity Workers Goes Over the Top

The tag day for the Monte Vista Home for Orphans and Undernourished children was a success. It was an even greater success than the members of the committee in charge of the drive had hoped for. The total sum received from the drive was $303.75. This was announced from the chamber of commerce, where Mrs. R. W. Meeker, chairman of the tag day committee counted the receipts today.

When the county purchased the home for children more than a year ago the plan of having the various towns in the district equip a room. The women of Glendale agree to equip the kitchen. This was done and the final equipment needed to make the kitchen complete was so costly that when completed the committee found that it was more than $200 in debt. It was to raise the money that the tag day was held.

Those who gave of their time to assure the success of the drive are as follows: Mrs. R. W. Meeker, chairman of the committee, Mesdames E. W. Kinney, Brody, O. H. Belew, Alexander Mitchell, J. G. Huntley, Calvin Cable, Lillian Dow, Pearl Keller, Art Dibbern, Brattain and A. M. Fairchild, team captains and Misses Virgina Huntley, Catherine Campbell, Dorothy Packer, Mildred Meeker, Lucy Strothers and Evelyn Gregg who were members of the various tag selling teams.

PTOMAINE WIPES OUT CHICKENS

Mrs. McKinney Finds Forty-five of Her Flock Dead of Poison

Sadness reigns in the home of Mrs. Lizzie McKinney of 1259 South San Fernando road today. You would register a certain degree of sadness, too, if you went out in the back yard and found 45 undressed chickens — lying there cold in death. This is exactly the experience of Mrs. Lizzie McKinney yesterday morning.

She had a nice little chicken ranch started and every day was feeding 60 chickens. On Saturday night Mrs. McKinney fed her brood of egg layers a hearty feed of canned corn. Yesterday morning when she went to feed the brood, or herd, or whatever it is that chickens travel in, the first sight that met her eyes was dead chickens. There were dead chickens in the yard, dead chickens around the water pan, dead chickens in the hen house—in fact, the yard was literally covered with defunct chickens. A count of the brood disclosed the fact that out of 60 chickens of the day before, 45 were dead and of the remaining 15 13 had the appearance of being likely to die at any minute.

City Health Officer Hollenbeck was called and he ordered the dead bodies removed to the city incinerator, where they were burned. The crops of two of the chickens were removed and sent to the state laboratory in Los Angeles, where an analysis disclosed the fact that they had died from ptomaine poisoning caused by spoiled corn.

$50,000 TUESDAY CLUB HOME

Plans Submitted by Alfred F. Priest to Committee

ESSENTIAL FEATURES

If Approved Corner Stone Can Be Laid by June

Things are really moving in connection with the proposed home of the Tuesday Afternoon club. The middle of the week a meeting of the building committee composed of members of the executive board and past presidents was held with Architect Alfred F. Priest, at which he submitted plans and a most attractive elevation of a beautiful clubhouse, a combination of Spanish and Italian that greatly pleased the committee and that will cost, he estimates, about $50,000.

It will include all the essential features demanded for the meetings and social life of the organization, including an auditorium seating 800, parlors, committee rooms, banquet hall and kitchen.

A sub-committee was appointed to interview bankers and others relative to a building loan, and that committee will report at another meeting of the full committee to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, Tuesday morning, when a formal committee report will be adopted to be presented to the club the same afternoon.

If the club approves the clubhouse as pictured by Mr. Priest, and adopts the building committee's report, instructing its officers to proceed with the construction of the clubhouse, it is hoped that the corner stone can be laid before the club adjourns for the summer in June.

In the event that this program is adopted it is quite probable that the sketch of the clubhouse will be exhibited at the meeting of the District Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Santa Monica, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, when there is to be an exhibit of clubhouse plans, interiors, exteriors and garden effects, whcih is expected to attract much attention because so many clubs of the district are planning permanent homes. The list includes the Friday Morning and Ebell of Los Angeles, Shakespeare club of Pasadena, Hollywood Women's club, the women's clubs of Covina, Highland Park, Lamanda Park, San Gabriel, Redondo, Burbank, the Ebell of Long Beach, the Philanthropy and Civics club of Los Angeles and the West Ebell of the same city.

The premier will return from his holiday at Criccieth about the 29th and is expected to make a speech in the house and ask for the vote. He expects to obtain the necessary majority before going to Genoa.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. The public peace, health, safety, comfort, convenience, interest and welfare require the establishment of a set-back line along all public streets, public ways, or places in the City of Glendale, except in that portion of said City included within the Business and Industrial Districts of said City, as said districts are now or may hereafter be established by ordinance; and a line to be known and designated as a set back line is hereby established along all such public streets, public ways or places upon which any lots or parcel of land fronts, at a minimum distance of twenty-five (25) feet back from the street line for the erection of buildings or structures along any portion of any such public street, public way or place in said City, not included within said Business and Industrial Districts aforesaid; provided, that where a lot is a corner lot and fronts upon a public street, public way or place, and also has a public street, public way or place upon or along the side thereof, no set-back line is herein established upon or along the side thereof, and nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to establish such set-back line upon or along the side of such lot; and provided further, that the terms "public street, public way or place" shall not include any alley or alleys or other passage way or ways along the rear line or any lot or lots within said City.

SECTION 2. Unless permission is first had and obtained as hereinafter provided, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to construct any building, wall, fence or other structure within the space between a public street line, a public way or place line and said set-back line herein established, and the Superintendent of Buildings shall refuse to issue any permit for any building or structure to be erected within such space.

SECTION 3. Said City Council shall have power to hear such petition and grant or reject same, and may in its discretion, require said petitioner to amend or otherwise amplify said petition so as to set forth any fact or facts deemed material by said Council, or may require such petitioner to file in connection with such petition, a statement signed by any proportion or all of the property owners along any portion of such street, to assist said Council in determining the necessity for granting such permit.

Upon filing such petition, amended petition, or statement in connection with such petition, said Council may refer the same to the City Manager, Superintendent of Buildings, or any other City Official it deems advisable, for checking, investigation and report, and such official or officials shall report the result of such investigation, together with a recommendation in relation thereto to the Council.

SECTION 4. The City Council shall have power on its own motion, and nothing in this Ordinance shall be deemed or construed to limit or abridge the power of the Council, to establish, re-establish, alter or change such set-back line or lines on its own initiative.

SECTION 6. SECTION 9. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this Ordinance by a four-fifths vote of the whole Council and shall cause the same to be published once in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City, and thereupon and thereafter, the same shall take effect and be in full force.

COMMERCE SCHOOL OF U. OF SO. CAL. PROSPERS

Director Hunt's Report for Second Year Is Indicative

A record of exceptional growth and expansion for the second year of the College of Commerce and Business Administration at the University of Southern California is shown in the Second Annual Report of the College just presented by the director, Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt.

Indicative of the high regard in which the work and ideals of the College are held by business men in the city is the act of 20 of the city's leading financial and business men in underwriting the budget of the College of Commerce to the extent of $1000 each (a total of $20,000) against any possible deficit for the current academic year. The agreement of these men to serve as a board of guarantors made possible a considerable expansion of the plans of the college. Four specialists were added to the instructional staff, as follows: George J. Eberle, A. B. (Wisconsin), Statistics and Public Utilities; Clayton D. Carus, A. M., (Stanford) Foreign Trade and Latin-American Relations; Ralph L. Power, M. B. A., (Boston University), Management; and E. D. Fagan, A. M., (Harvard), Agricultural Economics.

The enrollment for the second year of 943 students in the day and evening divisions represents an increase of 62 per cent over the 581 of the previous year. A full quota of classes from freshmen to senior year enables the first graduating class to secure the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration next June. A "Certificate in Commerce" is to be awarded to those students in the evening division who successfully complete 60 units of work, 24 of which are prescribed.

GLENDALE C. E. ATTEND CONVETION

body and surprised every one, for behold! there was a goodly sprinkling of "Glen and Dale" hats which were featured so prominently at the state convention, June 25-29. Every one remembered the helpful, happy time they had here and gave a loud clap, while the delegation proceeded to sing a Glendale paraphrase of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching."

At this time one of the members of senior B society went forward and received a prize from the hand of Paul Brown, field secretary for western states, for having won the highest score in Glendale district, and also for being the third most efficient society in the county. Glendale Presbyterian senior B was surpassed by only two, the Broadway Christian society, senior, and the Immanuel Presbyterian society, intermediate, both Los Angeles societies.

When the new officers of Los Angeles county union were installed Sunday evening by Harry C. Allan, California field secretary, it was noticed that Glendale district had given five of the new executives, Miss Mabel Galey, re-elected junior superintendent; Miss Marjorie Smith, assistant recording secretary; Will Richards, vice-president; Everett Anderson, evangelistic superintendent, and Dick Link, assistant evangelistic superintendent. Los Angeles county C. E., with its 300 societies, is an organization which requires a large, well-trained, consecrated group of young people to handle. The new president of the county is J. Leroy Pettit of the Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles. Chas. Culver of the Broadway Christian church has just completed a very successful year.

Glendale people contributed to the program. Miss Mabel Galey had complete charge of the Hollywood Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. Harry Marple, new president of Glendale district, had charge of the Tenth Legion rally Saturday morning at which conference it was the aim to give methods and ideals of giving proportionately, a tenth being an amount often mentioned in the Bible. Mr. Marple is the retiring Tenth Legion superintendent for the county and over 700 have signed their willingness to give this way during the past year.

Howard Brown also took active part in the program Saturday night. He represented Los Angeles county, and Harold Cross, transportation manager for the county union, represented San Francisco county, and at opposite sides of the stadium they held a phone conversation in which Golden Gate union challenged Los Angeles county to reach their quota of 500 for the state convention at Oakland before they did. This was very amusing, being carried on amid the ringing of bells by "central."

The biggest and best way in which Glendale district took part was when Rev. W. E. Edmonds gave the closing talk of the convention to the immense audience there. A group of his own church people sat right in front in order to be an added inspiration if he needed it. The way the young people of the county responded to his plea for full surrender showed that his words, backed by prayer, had accomplished the aim of the convention and repaid officers and hosts of Hollywood for their work.

Junior Endeavorers were just as much interested in the Hollywood C. E. convention as the intermediates and seniors.

Saturday morning, four juniors from the Glendale Presbyterian society sang "That's Why We Love Him So," at a junior conference. These were Howard Rettberg, Darrell Korb, James Edmonds and Helen McCormick.

This same society won one of the prizes offered in the junior four-square contest, which was two subscriptions to Junior Endeavor. This means that the Glendale Presbyterian juniors have the best society in the county, as prizes were given to the most efficient society of 15 members to 30 members and over 30, and Glendale has over 30.

Miss Josephine Rettberg is the superintendent and Helen McCormick president; Howard Rettberg, vice-president; Adam Woo, secretary, and James Edmonds, treasurer. James Edmonds received the award in behalf of his society at the rally in Hollywood Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Huse of Mira Loma street and S. E. Brown of South Maryland, took a group of Junior Endeavorers from the Tropico Presbyterian church to the junior rally held in connection with the Hollywood C. E. convention. Miss Phoebe Snell, the superintendent, accompanied them.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCEEDS ACCOMMODATIONS

Church Decides to Expand Auditorium to Admit 90 Seats

At a meeting of the members of the First Baptist church held recently it was unanimously decided to make temporary arrangements for the accommodation of the rapidly growing congregation and the Sunday school. A portion of the east side of the auditorium will be pushed out so that practically 90 seats may be placed. Other improvement work will be made that will greatly enhance the building and will serve until the new $100,000 auditorium is ready for occupancy. The improvements to be made soon will cost about $3000.

RADIO TELEPHONE IS CRAZE IN EAST

Physician Catches Enthusiasm and Will Install Set

Dr. Henry R. Harrower, who returned to Glendale Saturday after a transcontinental trip of several weeks, says it is too true about the craze in New York for radio messages. It is the great theme of conversation everywhere and the sale of receiving sets is enormous. In one day at the Pennsylvania hotel, where a radio demonstration took place, 6000 visitors came to see and hear it. The doctor caught the infection and has brought back a collection of catalogues with the serious intention of installing receiving apparatus which can be used both at the Harrower laboratory and in his own home.

He says he has discovered that he is a harbinger of good weather. The facts seem to bear out his claims. Just before he reached Wyoming the state was swept by a cold wave that sent the mercury plunging down to 20 below, but by the time he arrived the temperature had warmed to a crisp, delightful cold. Chicago had a blizzard two days before he got there but put on her spring dress to greet him. On reaching home Mrs. Harrower had a weather story to tell bad enough to bring the blush of shame to California, but the doctor's luck held and Sunday dawned warm, balmy, brilliantly sunny, the first real California day in six weeks.

He visited Boston, New York, Chicago, Kansas City and other big towns and addressed associations of medical men greatly interested in glandular therapy. He also made the rounds of his branch offices, finding them all doing an excellent business.

Among the interesting souvenirs of his travels are some freshly minted new dollars of considerable interest.

DRAMA STUDENTS MADE $250

One-Act Plays Prove Financial Success for School

It is estimated that the net proceeds received from the three one-act plays presented Thursday and Friday nights in the auditorium of the high school will amount to approximately $250. This money will go to the Dramatic Fund of the high school and a part of it will be used to send a Glendale representative to Berkeley to take part in a Shakespeare contest, April 20. Each school in Southern California may send a representative to Berkeley and they will choose 20 lines from Shakespeare to read. April 27th there will be a similar contest held at the Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles in celebration of Shakespeare's birthday. These contests are given to create interest in Shakespeare's work, and Glendale should have a fine showing. Miss Gardner is in charge of dramatic work.

GLENDALE ABSORBS ALL ARROWHEAD MAGAZINE

L. H. Wilson's Committee Works Wonders in Publicity

The March issue of the monthly guide book to western travel and magazine, The Arrowhead, published by the Union Pacific railroad, made its appearance today and the entire issue was devoted to Glendale. Across the front cover of the magazine the legend, "Glendale, the Fastest Growing City in America," is printed. A complete history of the city and its growth is outlined in the reading matter of the magazine in the most enjoyable story form. Newspaper people of the city, business men and professional men and women, all contributed articles to this issue of the magazine. The data and pictures, of which there are many, were gathered for the publication through the efforts of L. H. Wilson, chairman of the chamber of commerce publicity committee, and his co-workers on the committee.

It is said by many that The Arrowhead is one of the best forms of publicity that can be secured for the city, as this magazine can be secured on all passenger trains of the Union Pacific lines. This magazine greets the stranger coming to California for the first time and the March issue tells him of the growth and advantages to be gained in Glendale, the Fastest Growing City in America.

ROMMEL COMPANY GETS $72,000 IN EAGLE ROCK

At a special meeting of the board of trustees of Eagle Rock City last week, the contract for the new city hall was awarded to the Rommel Construction company, the lowest of eight bidders.

Their estimate was $22,950, which does not include equipment.

This company is building a theatre in Eagle Rock which, with its furnishings, will cost about $50,000, and construction of the two buildings will go on simultaneously.

AMERICAN ARMY IS ORDERED HOME FROM GERMANY

WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Harding has directed the return of all American troops from Germany, Secretary of War Weeks announced today.

The American forces will be gradually withdrawn at the present rate until they are all returned to this country, and it is the plan that the last soldiers will be brought back to this country by the end of this fiscal year, or before July 1.

Secretary of War Weeks in a statement declared that the gradual withdrawal of American troops now being carried out will be continued until the entire force has been returned.

At present, Weeks estimated, troops on the Rhine.
there are about 4000 American troops on the Rhine.

Weeks stated that the ordering of the evacuation has no connection with the provision in the pending army appropriation bill limiting the forces in Euprope to 500.

CALL HEAT WITH BUTTON

Glendale people like to have their bed chambers warm when they arise in the morning. They enjoy having clock-controls for their furnaces so their rooms will be cozy and warm when they wake up. After their rooms are heated they don't like to bother with keeping the heat and ventilation regulated, but prefer to turn this task over to a thermostat, or to govern it by means of a push button, according to J. C. Beldin, local heating contractor, who says the comfort and economy of heating have been revolutionized by the gas furnace.

An interesting electrically-controlled furnace is on exhibit at the Beldin sheet metal works on Brand boulevard, where a single electric button is made to do the work of the usual switchboard control. Mr. Beldin invites all Glendale home owners to see this exhibit.

Truths in Epigram

Manners must adorn knowledge, and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond, it may do very well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value.—Earl of Chesterfield (1694-1773).

Knowledge is of two kinds; we know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it.—Johnson (1709-1784).

THE INCOME TAX

It is seldom that the payment of any tax is attended by an emotion of pleasure. The taxpayer protests, if not openly, at least deep down in his soul. He may recognize that the tax is necessary, but he is inclined to think that there should be a way of escape for himself. His feeling may be expressed in the familiar phrase "Let George do it." In all this the income tax takes its place with the others. The payer grumbles. He is so constituted that he has to grumble. This is his reaction to any levy that touches his purse.

In relation to the income tax there is a specific grievance of a different sort. Ordinarily the citizen receives a statement making plain to him the amount called for. He may think it too high, probably does so think it, but he is not plunged into a maze of bewilderment. He is able to read plain figures thrust under his eyes. But he must determine the amount of his income tax himself. For this purpose he is supplied with a set of complex and confusing blanks. He comes with confidence to the task of filling out the blanks. He believes that he knows his own income and his own outgo; and he does know these things until he has studied the blanks awhile. Then knowledge takes flight. The more he studies the forms, the more profound becomes his ignorance. He plucks wildly at his hair, the process producing no mental effect, and at last he takes the whole matter to an expert.

Doubtless the income tax is no transitory requirement. Year after year it will have to be paid (in the absence of exemptions, which are equally hard to determine). It seems strange that a government, generally kindly, inclined towards beneficence, cannot contrive a set of blanks that will relieve the taxpayer of mental strain.

ONLY A YOUNG THING

The attempt to convey the belief that a plesiosaurus has been observed swimming in an Andean lake seems to be discouraged by science. The creature mentioned belonged to a period reckoned as ten million years back. Such an antique would be looked upon with veneration. It would make the giant trees of California, numbering their years by thousands, to have the transitory aspect of the blade of grass by the roadside.

A professor of high degree explains that nobody has seen a plesiosaurus except in fossil form, more or less fragmentary. He thinks the animal disturbing the quiet of the lake by the lashing of a horny tail represents the edenates, embracing such organisms as the glyptodon and the megatherium. Both of these belong to the comparatively recent period that prevailed a million years ago. Their remains have been found in several places, not fossilized but giving evidence of having been a long time dead. Compared with the plesiosaurus, the glyptodon is quite modern. It must be regarded as only a young thing. However, there appears scant likelihood that nature has been creating any of the species in the passing of a thousand centuries, or some of the more recent bones would have come to light. Therefore, if the glyptodon still hurtles across the bosom of Andean waters, it must have been there a long time. Such survival has an air of improbability.

Perhaps the whole explanation is that the teller of sea-serpent yarns has acquired a habitat in South America.

MEETS NO LONG FELT WANT

Frances Burton Harrison, former governor-general of the Philippines, has written a book. It seems to be a work of dignity, designed to promote a purpose that it will, in point of fact, in no way aid. There was no real occasion for the book. The career of Harrison was well known, and his policy understood, but not approved. He conducted his office upon the theory that the Filipinos should be given independence now, and that the delay was a breach of good faith. In seeking to impress his belief while yet in a place of authority, he made himself offensive to every American, and indeed, to all white people with whom he came in contact. He deferred to the natives in a manner humiliating to observe. He gave them to understand not merely that they were the equals of any race, but far superior to the race that, as he agreed with native agitators, was holding them in thrall. His attitude discouraged any form of appreciation for the many favors bestowed, any hope that when independence was promised, the United States meant what it said. He never hesitated to snub an American if by doing so he could curry the favor of an islander. His regime was a mischievous era, greatly hampering this government.

There will come a time when the Philippines will be free. It will come when they have proved themselves worthy of freedom, and when there is reason to believe that they will be safe from native politicians or alien invaders. They have made a fine advance. They have, to a certain extent, laid hold upon the thought that education is essential. They are being trained to recognize the value of truth. Some of them now understand the nature of an oath. In other words, they are progressing. They are moving towards the goal, upon reaching which, national freedom will be accorded them. Harrison failed to help them in this respect. His policy hindered them, set them back, instilling false notions. All this constitutes a handicap yet to be overcome.

An explanation by Harrison could be little else than an attempt at justification of his course.

THE LOVE OF UNTRUTH

All American war secrets, says the distinguished Brisbane, are offered freely to England. He adds: "This does not surprise you, for in some queer way, apparently, the United States is supposed to be under the protectorate of the British empire."

The explanation of such a statement is a matter for the psychologist. The statement itself does not involve the expression of a truth, or of anything believed by the writer of it, to be the truth. It is the product of a mind that must be aware that in the averment is no element of veracity.

A biologist, lately mentioned in these columns, affirms that forty-five million Americans have no sense, and that twenty-five million more have just a little sense. It is possible, if the biologist does not err in his estimate, that Brisbane seeks to make appeal to the two groups, and with a show of success as to the first and larger group.

England is not the protector of the United States in any sense that the United States is not the protector of England. The two countries have agreed to maintain amicable relations, have given their pledges, this situation of course being a protection to both.

Brisbane insinuates that the "war secrets" of his vivid imagination will be passed by Great Britain to Japan, "her secret ally." He knows, naturally, not being the dullard indicated by his pose, that the agreement of the United States with England is also an agreement with Japan. The same agreement that would make close relations between the United States and England, must abolish the old Anglo-Jap alliance. Thus Great Britain would be left without her "secret ally," which, by the way, never was secret, the compact being so open that the world knew all about the terms.

USURPING POWER

The administration is said to be displeased with the methods of congress touching the army. If the legislative branch is not usurping the powers of the executive branch, indications have not been read aright.

According to the constitution the President is commander-in-chief of the army. According to the "small army" clique this authority should be taken from him. They propose to arrange the disposition of the army through the power to control appropriations. They presume to specify the number of men to be sent to the islands, to the canal zone, or on missions abroad. That is to say, they intend to deprive the commander-in-chief of the right to command. In case they fail to have their way, it seems to be their idea to cut the army down to the point of uselessness, leaving nothing to be commanded.

There is considerable business before congress. Some of it is of so embarrassing a nature that members may be glad to evade it through the pretense of being busy with other affairs. In such case it would be wise to select affairs that concerned them, that came properly within their jurisdiction. Instead of doing this they have chosen to interfere with the perogatives of the President.

The course does not seem wise, and some observers might go so far as to regard it as an insolence.

BOOKS I HAVE MET

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Recently I have met three real Books.

To meet a real Book is as much an event and a thrill as to meet a real Man, perhaps even a real Woman.

DR. FRANK CRANE

Books roar from the presses of the modern world like the waters that come down at Lodore.

No human being can keep track of the wild and boundless waste of literature spread all about us.

If one even followed The Times Book Review he would have time for nothing else. To be "well read," as the smart book reviewers seem to suppose their readers all want to pretend to be, a man would have to give up his business and a woman would be compelled to renounce the world, take the veil and enter a library.

Of the sixty new books on my "new books" shelves in front of me there are fifty-seven varieties of trash.

But I have met three volumes that were worth almost drowning for.

First: That book on "The World's Food Resources," by Smith of Columbia, which I spoke of some time ago.

Second: The thin fortnightly luridly bound parts, recently sent over from England, of what is going to be the smashing literary event of the year, H. G. Wells' "Outlines of History."

Wells, to my mind, is king of modern writers. He is not a Smart Aleck like G. B. Shaw, a sleight of hand performer like Chesterton, a wonderful story teller lost on the Road to Endor like Conan Doyle, an amazing phrase maker like Kipling.

He differs from all these in that he has something to say, something of importance which the world ought to hear. He has a message. He is a preacher. As Dante and Victor Hugo were preachers, and R. L. Stevenson.

Some time later I hope to review this History at length. But—just think of one thing—a history of man, beginning with the Pithecanthropus or Ape Man and ending with the League of Nations!

Third: Edwin E. Slosson's "Creative Chemistry."

When I got away into this book I almost wept for self-pity. To think I had never had a chance to read such a book when a boy!

And I wanted to shout. To think of the luck of the present generation of boys who have such a book.

The book is tremendous. It is an epoch. It is knowledge made beautiful, facts transformed to fairies.

The reason is easy to see. Slosson has imagination. Hence he does not stupidly write what he knows his reader cannot grasp, as do most authors of scientific books.

It is a book to own, to mark, to read aloud to the family.

I am getting along, hence harder and harder to please. But thankful I am that I can still burst into flame at such as these three books.

Would that they were spread abroad, and studied of young writers, that they might see that to write greatly it is not necessary to wallow in cheap morbidities, nor crack smarty quips, nor be nasty, nor this, nor that, but only to have that gift of God which comes to few, that Ithuriel's wand that makes a miracle of the commonplace, that secret of all real letters——

Creative Imagination.

AT THE LISTENING POST

There are three articles of faith in life that are important:

Faith in the world.
Faith in your work.
Faith in yourself.

Faith in the world results in friendliness.
Rich humanity.
Helpfulness.
High spirit.
Happiness.

For faith in the world means that you think the world is worth while.

That men and women and children are worth fighting for and helping.

That truth and honesty and justice will overcome errors and dishonesty and injustice.

So having that faith you will labor to that end.

You will not be a "What-is-the-Use-r?"

The least worth while person in the world is the "What-is-the-Use-r?"

Who sees no good in things.
Gets up with a sigh.
Lives through the day with a frown.
And goes to bed with a yawn.

Those are the trademarks of the cynic.
Of the person who lacks faith in life.
The "What-is-the-Use-r?"
The sigh, the frown and the yawn.

The world is not to be sighed over.
To be frowned at.
To be yawned for.
It is to be glad for.
To be smiled at.
And to be worked for.

* * *

So faith in the world teaches us the necessity for effort, good-nature and spirit.

And if we have faith in the world we must have faith in work.

For work is what the world lives by.

The laborer is the individual upon whom depends the survival of civilization.

Life is motion.

Labor and effort and change from one state to another.

There is the germ of patient labor in the seed.

That germinates and sprouts and sends forth shoots and grows.

There is the patient labor that lift the clod.

Moves onward and upward.

To fruition and fulfilment.

* * *

And faith in your work means that you are a willing laborer.

Not a drudge.

Not a driven thing.

But a high-spirited individual wanting to do your share.

And that makes labor a pleasure and not a hateful thing.

And then after faith in the world and your work comes faith in yourself.

Faith in the part you have to play.

Whether it be high or low, great or small, distinguished or humble.

Faith that you can and will do your work.

Faith that ridicule cannot destroy.

Cynicism cannot shake.

Ingratitude cannot weaken.

Misfortune cannot wreck.

That is the kind of faith that makes for victory.

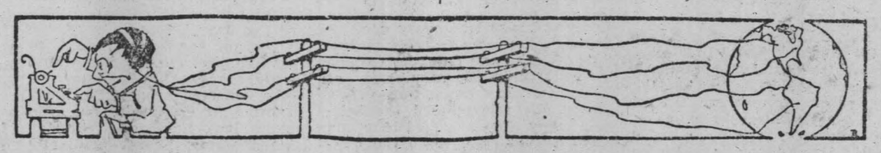
Not the uncertainty that veers and turns with every wind or breath of criticism or chance or circumstance.

But the belief in yourself that is strong to struggle.

Long to endure.

Patient to labor.

JAMES W. FOLEY.



SONGS OF THE POETS

Here is the Place Where Loveliness Keeps House—Madison Cawein (1865-1914)

Here is the place where Loveliness keeps house,
Between the river and the wooded hills,
Within a valley where the Springtime spills
Her firstling wind-flowers under blossoming boughs:
Where Summer sits braiding her warm, white brows
With bramble-roses; and where Autumn fills
Her lap with asters; and old Winter frills
With crimson haw and hip his snowy blouse
Here you may meet with Beauty. Here she sits
Gazing upon the moon, or all the day
Tuning a wood-thrush flute, remote, unseen;
Or when the storm is out, 'tis she who flits
From rock to rock, a form of flying spray,
Shouting, beneath the leaves' tumultuous green.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

CATECHISED AND CATECHISERS

[Washington Star]

Candidates for house or senate this year will confront an ordeal. They are scheduled for an "experience."

The farmers will ask, "What, if elected, will you do for us? We are in the nine hole, and, naturally, want to get out. Read our circulars, and tell us how they strike you."

The wage-earners will ask, "How do you feel toward labor? Great numbers of us are not at present earning wages, and those of us on payrolls are not drawing down money enough. What will you do—how far will you go—to even up things?"

The manufacturers will want to know, "Are you well advised about where we stand? We can tell you that we are barely able to stand at all, and need the brace of friendly legislation. You ought to know, and probably do know, that we are very necessary in the American scheme of things. We could not go down without dragging others after us and causing general smash. We are not in favor of smash."

How many candidates will have the courage to give all of these men a frank onceover, and reply as the occasion really requires? How many will plant themselves firmly on the proposition that we are all in the same boat, and that relief that does not in a measure relieve all will not meet the emergency; that the farmers, the wage-earners, the manufacturers and that powerful and deserving contingent known as the consumers must all be taken into consideration, not preferably class by class, but as parts of a whole which needs attention?

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

The extension of the franchise is raising many vexed questions. For instance: "What will be the outcome when husband and wife are opposing candidates for the same office?" Who can tell?

It may be the best thing that ever happened—and then again it may not. It is often said that husband and wife lose interest in each other because of the deadly level of marital experience and home association. Mere household dialecticians become addicted to ennui, contempt and even rancor. But widen the field, place both connubial candidates in the field of politics, pitted against each other, and what an element of excitement is added! Husband and wife, each already pastmasters in arguefying, may use their developed talent to the instruction and diversion of the many, instead of hiding it under the bushel of the household. Beside the intricacies of the national budget, those of the mere home variety would sink into insignificance.

Then, too, abuse of the rival candidate would be largely eliminated. Personalities might rage in the home, but on the political platform they would repel rather than attract. Hubby could not descend to criticism, no mater how much ammunition he had. Wifie could not blacken her rival's character. Deadly letters and sworn statements could not be produced at the last day, too late for the refuting.

The weakness would largely lie in the debates. They would probably have to be abolished. They wouldn't be fair. All would know from the beginning whose would be the last word. It is woman's prerogative.

FRUITS OF THE PRIMARY

[Springfield Union]

The tendency under the primary system is, first, to send weaker and weaker men to congress and other representative bodies, and, second, to make them extremely sensitive to group propaganda and fearful of group votes. Party leadership does not function. The responsibility for the choice of men best able to command general support and best able to give a good account of themselves as representatives is greatly diminished if not actually lost. In its place is put a competitive scramble for a plurality of a small primary vote often yielding the most grotesque result, of popular indifference or carelessness, such as the favor for a name that comes first in the alphabetical list, or for a candidate whose name may resemble that of another or even for one whose candidacy is regarded as a joke. In short, there is introduced into the choice of representatives a game of chance which tends always to come out in favor of the poorer results.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Freedom of speech got a jolt recently. The speech involved was emanating from Prof. Scott Nearing. He was engaged in delivering a lecture before the Liberal club, an organization of Clark university students. The president of the university appeared and ordered the lecturer to cease. Three times he uttered his mandate, but one of the most difficult feats of Nearing, is to cease. He starts readily but his brakes are defective. So the president ordered the lights turned out, and the gathering soon dispersed, with a sibilant volume of protest.

HENRY JAMES

It is not clear why Nearing was silenced by the darkness. Possibly he relies for effect upon fervid gesture.

Nearing teaches precisely the doctrine that may be heard wherever loafers listen to the typical soapbox orator. He expresses it in language more polished, and he keeps his hands clean. He also wears a white collar and has been known to have his shoes shined. His theory, stated briefly, is that civilization is so wrong that it must be reduced to original elements and then something constructed out of the fragments, with Prof. Nearing, designer and builder.

The policeman chases the street orator from his soapbox, and the university president chases the professor from the rostrum. Two direct blows at freedom of speech. Really there isn't unlimited freedom of speech. It is perplexing when the desire to preserve order obliges the peace authorities to waive a provision of the constitution. Perhaps this is better, however, than to let the constitution be destroyed by burning words.

New York university co-eds have petitioned for a smoking room as an adjunct to the seat of learning. They think that smoking would soothe their nerves.

Doubtless the time has not yet come for smoking in the classroom.

According to Mrs. Kennedy, a woman connected with the Illinois department of health, moral conditions among girls in small towns are worse than in the cities. She told of a group of school girls "everyone of whom had a small flask containing liquor tied about her neck and carried inside the bosom of her dress."

Is Mrs. Kennedy assured that the flask did not contain tea? Did she see the flask or merely hear about it?

The theory that fewer restraints are thrown about girls in small towns is advanced from time to time. Mrs. Kennedy not being the first by a million or so. Nobody has proved the theory yet.

There still are old-fashioned homes in the small towns.

A coal strike is said to be inevitable. This means that two sets of men who have a disagreement lack sense to get together, talk it over and be fair.

When the strike comes, the strikers will suffer, the mine owners be temporarily inconvenienced, making up losses later, and the chief burden of disaster will fall on the unoffending public.

Word is brought from Africa that the gorilla will not fight a man, but will run away. This shows the intelligence of the beast, and that it has learned the man carries a gun.

The first man to tell Americans about the gorilla was the French explorer Paul du Chaillu. That was more than half a century ago. At that date the gorilla, beating its breast with a great fist, would run at sight of a man, but, much to the discomfiture of the man, towards him, and not in the opposite direction.

However, Prof. Garner, who went into Africa to do missionary work among the monkeys, may have whispered a few words of pacific counsel to the gorilla, too.

People talk too much about what to eat. They do not eat for pleasure or for comfort, but with grave discussion of food values, balanced rations, calories, vitamines, etc., etc.

Such substances as potatoes, bread with sweet butter, all meats, most vegetables, no longer are regarded as fit for human consumption. Sugar is a poison, salt a menace, coffee a lethel dose.

All of which chatter and piffle makes the normal mortal tired. If people would resume the fashion of eating in satisfying quantity, the food that is set before them, never caring a solitary whoop what the diet crank thinks about it, the human stomach would reciprocate the courtesy by attending to the processes of digestion.

Half the stomach troubles are imagined, and most of the other half due to crotchety fads.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I used to envy my rich friends, but I do not any more. Money is a good thing. It isn't the root of all evil. There are a lot of other roots. I would like to have more money than I have. For all that, if I can be assured of a sound roof and coal in the furnace and a dog in the front yard and a few hens scratching around in the garden in my age I'll be satisfied.

"You've spent your riches," my wife says. A woman's needs for old age usually include a limousine and an unusual trip to the Rue de la Paix. But I haven't. I've bought them.

It is my firm conviction that any one of sound mind, sturdy body, and a single-track mind can make himself rich if he sets out to do so. But when he is rich what has he? Nine rich men out of ten have only a lot of useless metal in the bank which they must leave to their heirs. Long before they leave it the heirs come around each morning with a stethoscope to find out how much longer the poor old rich man is going to encumber the earth.

Whereas Mrs. Pilgrim and myself have wandered around a bit. We've saved a little money—running on toward, but not to, that dog and hen ideal heretofore outlined—but for what we have spent we have laid up treasures of memory that moth cannot corrupt nor thieves break through and steal. We've seen the monkeys of Gibraltar and the smugglers of Andorra and the quaint street scenes of Peking. We know how to tip stewards on ocean steamers and how to stand off cargadores in Mexico. Any night that a few friends will submit themselves to our reminiscences we can entertain ourselves for hours just telling about what we have seen and done and heard. Often the friends likewise express themselves as pleased.

I know that sort of a temperament is useless, as this world goes. Its owner would never build railroads across the Andes or lay cables under the sea or ruin his constitution trying to make a stock flotation blossom where only a bond issue bloomed before. There will be no statues erected to us in the public parks—which is a good thing; one of my pleasures is the reading of history, and I find that a lot of people who have had statues named after them were pretty cheap skates while they were alive——

But, after all, the only persons who are really interested in this life of ours are Mr. and Mrs. John Pilgrim. No one else cares whether we enjoy life or go down to the grave grouchy. I'd rather have a set of excellent memories than a ton of bonds.

After that house and hen and dog proposition has been provided for, of course.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Union Oil Stockholders

THIS is the last day of battle—the last day in which you can throw the influence of your shares into the balance which must determine whether the Union Oil Company of California shall remain an American institution or not.

The books of the holding company close at midnight, and organization agreements, to be accepted, must be brought in before that time, or, if mailed, nust bear the postmark of today. Tomorrow will be too late.

There is nothing more that can be said to you. The question has been placed before you in its entirety. The best editorial and financial writers in America have discussed it—and, in this discussion, there has been no dissenting voice. Men like Mark Requa—the greatest international oil expert in the country—have pointed out what it means to the State and to the Nation if you fail. The Chamber of Commerce has weighed the question, and its resolutions are a matter of public record. The President of the Clearing House has pointed out the increased value of holding company stock as banking collateral, and the danger which lies in wait if the holding company should not be formed.

You have today an American—a California—company, carried on by Americans in the interest of Americans, controlling a quarter of the State's oil supply and doing a business of $60,000,000 a year. Will it become a mere subsidiary of the Royal Dutch Shell—a pawn resident in Holland, but moved from London—shoved back and forth across the international chessboard in a world-wide war of the nations for the control of the oil supply, and possibly sacrificed, if desirable, without hesitation or regret—and you with it—to some selfish interest of those who are without interest in you, in your City, in your State, or in your Country?

Foreign companies operate in California. If a foreign company wins control over you, whose ships will get the richest cargoes, whose pipe lines will run full? Who will make the profits, and who will pay the bills?

You may accept this as an absolute fact: "Unless the holding company can be set up with a safe working majority of the stock of the Union Oil Company of California, it will not be set up at all."

Tonight at midnight the books close. They will not be re-opened.

UNION OIL ASSOCIATES

20 March 1922.
1134 Pacific Mutual Building, Los Angeles.

NOTE—Stockholders of the Union Oil Company of California who have no organization agreement blanks at hand, who telegraph today or mail, under today's postmark, a pledge to turn in their stock, will be included in the holding company and will be furnished with the necessary blanks immediately.

CONGREGATIONAL LADIES RESPOND TO CALL

Seventy Answer Summons of Missionary Society to Donate

Notwithstanding the wind and rain of Thursday, about 70 ladies responded to an invitation from the missionary society of the Congregational church to attend a luncheon in the church parlor and make a voluntary offering for the home mission fund. Mrs. C. W. Young, president of the society, presided and after an uplifting address, called for toasts on "The Big Sister," "The Adopted Sister," "Our Half Sister," "The Step Sister," "The Sister-in-Law," "The Little Sister," and "Our Own Sister," the latter described by Mrs. Young as the women of this country who live in out-of-the-way places. Mmes. Lyman, L. Pratt, W. J. Roach, G. E. Arbogast, A. C. Fisk, J. S. France, and Patrick told of the needs of women in other lands, such as China, Japan, India, Mexico, Africa, and the inhabited islands. Mrs. Paul Elderkin, director of the church choir, sang "More Love to Thee, O Christ" and responded to an encore. Her fresh young voice is always enjoyed. The occasion was quite like a family gathering and incited to greater earnestness the efforts of the society in the missionary field.

EAGLE ROCK REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Brown have sold their home, recently built on Townsend avenue at No. 231, to Mr. and Mrs. Heitman of Lamanda Park. All the members of the Brown family are down with the "flu."

Mr. and Mrs. F. Morgan Brown of 227 Townsend avenue, have sold their new home to Mr. and Mrs. Neiman of Huntington Park.

J. C. W. Wilson of West Myrtle avenue has bought an acre of ground at the head of North Castle avenue, and will build a handsome house on it for his home. It was owned by F. H. Hohlfelder.

The activities of the big steam shovel which has been excavating for a block of stores on the boulevard at Eagle Rock center have been transferred to the corner opposite the bank building, which has changed hands so many times during the past year that nobody seems to know who is the present owner or what the ultimate plan for the location is. The library, which will now be left, as the librarian says, "up in the air," should have had the two lots for the enlargement of its grounds, but efforts in that direction were not successful.

It is sometimes hard to forgive our friends for our loneliness.

'SIGNIFICANCE OF DREAMS' IS DISCUSSED

Rev. Isaac in Wednesday Letter Discusses Phenomina

As instances of accredited dreams which appear to indicate that occasionally while persons are asleep something enters their minds which does not come from the physical realm, Rev. E. Morgan Isaac in his lecture on "The Psychology and Significance of Dreams," Wednesday evening, related the dream of Abraham Lincoln a few nights before his assassination, also several others which scientists consider of much psychic value. Mr. Lincoln dreamed that while he was outside the White House he heard a great noise of people wailing. Soon he found himself inside the house, going from room to room. He reached the east room and there saw a casket with a man's body lying in it. Here, also, were people wailing. "Who is that man lying in the casket?" he asked, and was told that it was the president of the United States, who had been assassinated. Mr. Lincoln had many remarkable dreams in addition to this, which was so sadly verified.

After a lady in Ohio died suddenly, her daughter could not find the bonds which she knew her mother owned. One night she dreamed that her mother came to her and described in detail the place where the bonds were hidden. The lady's sister, who lived elsewhere, had exactly the same dream, and a search according to direction proved it to be true.

The chief surgeon of a hospital in Texas told the following: A friend of his living on a farm had in bank, at the time of the financial panic of 1907, the sum of $5000. Becoming alarmed, he removed it from the bank and hid it without telling his wife where it was, after which he died suddenly. The wife searched everywhere. One night she dreamed that she saw her husband and he told her he had buried the money in a tin can at a certain place on the farm, which she had left. A few nights later she dreamed the same thing again, and was so impressed that, against the advice of relatives, she borrowed money to return to the farm and there the money was found.

"Do not such things indicate," asked the lecturer, that the mind can think when out of the body, and that there are minds in spirit still interested in us and obesrvant of us? That genius, Robert Louis Stevenson, declared that he got most of his inspiration for his stories in sleep. From that source the book 'Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde' was involved. Here is a great unexplored territory, in which mighty discoveries may yet be made."

TALKS ON STARS AT CENT. SCHOOL

The first of three illustrated lectures on astronomy, to be given on successive Tuesday evenings, in the Central school auditorium, attracted a large attendance last Tuesday. The lecturer was Philip L. Knox, an evangelist-astronomer of note, and he was assisted by the celebrated harpist, Prof. de Dufrio, who has played at all the big expositions in this country. The musical numbers were from 7:30 to 8 o'clock and delighted old and young, ranging in execution from the most delicate passages to a power of tone seldom heard on the harp. The lecture began with prayer and closed with the singing of "America." The subject, "Exploring the Solar System," was illustrated with clear pictures on the screen, accompanied by a running description of the sun, the planets, comets, sun spots, eclipses, etc., with figures amazing in their magnitude, telling the distances between the sun and the various planets, the circumference of the sun, the rapidity of movement in the rays of light (11,000,000 miles a minute), and many details of the earth's planetary system, which is but one of the 300,000,000 solar systems that have been photographed through the world's greatest telescopes and reproduced on the screen. Views of Prof. Larkin in the Mt. Lowe observatory, and of the Mt. Wilson and Yerkes observatories, were shown. On the 18th of September, 1923, there will be a total eclipse of the moon, central at San Diego. "Sight-seeing Through the Universe With a Powerful Telescope" will be the subject of next Tuesday's lecture.

MISS SCHNOOR AND HOMER NICHOLS WED

A pretty wedding took place last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Mr. Schnoor, 281 South Satsuma avenue, when her daughter Miss Marie Schnoor became the bride of Homer Nichols, of Garden Grove. Rev. I. R. Lovejoy of Culver City was the officiating clergyman. Luncheon was served to the many guests present. The date was the bride's birthday as well as her wedding day.

MRS. KARGER WEDS DR. ROWLAND

PILGRIM DAY AT BURBANK MARKED BY INSPECTIONS

Procession of Cars Bring Citizens to Various Local Factories

BURBANK, March 20.—Pilgrim Day in Burbank was an occasion which will be remembered a long time by all those who helped to make up the procession which stated shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday from the city hall and began the rounds of numerous factories of Burbank. A number who had no car were cared for in this matter by those who had extra room. The first place visited was the American Aluminum Metal Products company. Here Mr. Duersten, vice president and general manager met the company and took them about the building or rather the part of a building, for construction work above the foundation commenced only fourteen days ago, and while remarkable progress has been made, the walls are only partly up. Mr. Duersten very ably explained the features of the building plans and said that continuous progressive operation was a main point kept in mind in planning the building which he further said would be U shaped with the ends touching the railroad spur which will be laid. This permits of great efficiency in the handling of raw products from tracks while as the process of manufacture developes into the finished article at the other end of the building it will be right at the railroad ready to be loaded on for shipment to the consumer.

The Empire China factory was the next place inspected. This is a factory of much interest and many exclamations by those who visit it for the first time. E. W. Morgan, general sales manager, was chief spokesman and explained to the pilgrims the process of taking powdered elements and mixing them with water and later squeezing the water out leaving a putty-like substance; of putting this through a machine which takes out the air as a last touch before being turned over to those who will toss a handful over a mold and with a few quick turns, fashion it into a saucer or plate platter or other shallow dish. The molding of deeper dishes is by a process quite different. The dishes are given two bakings, one before and one after they go into the enameling bath.

The Sacred Films, incorporated, was the third plant called upon. Dr. Edgar J. Banks, noted archaeologist, traveler and scientist, gave interesting explanations of the biblical settings which are accurate representatives of the houses in the village of Ur, where Abraham lived; the temple of the Moon God Sin, and other settings required in the filming of Bible stories. This company has made ten reels, five of which are released and fifty more will be made, all of them from the old testament stories. Just before the visitors were leaving, Dr. Huntington spoke of the tremendous difficulties that had arised to defer progress and also the great expense, but said that the company was now over the top and on a producing basis.

The Genevieve Jackson dehydrating plant was the next one in the line of visitation and here the guests were treated to the nationally famous sweet brannies which is one of the products of this plant.

Messrs. Pardieck and Nordyke, although dealing in science, explained their scientific work in lay terms and made it highly interesting to the visitors, most of whom were quite ignorant of the principles of dehydration.

The Nuway laundry was genially explained by Manager Russell, who demonstrated that when soiled duds and clean suds were mixed in the nuway style, the result was clean duds and soiled suds. The mangle ironing of flat pieces was watched with interest and also the hand work, which was done with electric irons that mounted the light bill up to $200 per month, according to Mr. Russell. Then there was a smaller building devoted to the cleaning of garments which could not be washed. In seeing this, one of the pilgrims said she did not know the laundry did such work.

Following this, came the call at the Libby, McNeil & Libby canning plant. This is not in operation and therefore not so interesting as it would be when the wheels were spinning and there was the buzz of business activity, but the company was interested in the machinery and having the cutters and peelers, the slicers and canners, the cookers and sealers explained to them by T. L. Up de Graff, who is the courteous manager of this plant and the one at Chino, and after all, it was not the plant itself but the fact that it was going to operate this season, that interested the company, and they had a cordial invitation from Mr. Up de Graff to return and see the plant when it would be in operation some weeks hence. Due to the lack of time, the procession of visitors could not go to the Moreland truck factory.

Pilgrim Day was an idea of Secretary Colburn of the chamber of commerce, and it proved to be an excellent one. Many Burbank residents saw for the first time the factories of their own city and learned something of the work which they are doing and of the reason they are putting this city on the map, and it is suggested that this Pilgrim Day be the first celebration of an annual event which will bring together in good fellowship, the people and their industries.

The man who forgets is often more appreciated than the man who forgives.

SINGING MAYOR VISITS BURBANK

BURBANK, March 20.—Spencer Robinson, mayor of Glendale was an entertaining speaker at the meeting of the Choral club Tuesday night. He spoke of the necessity for cooperation in a musical way, of this city and his own, if the greatest benefit was to be obtained by the people of both cities and by the musical organizations. Besides his address, he gave several vocal selections which were very much enjoyed, for Mayor Robinson has an excellent voice which he uses in a scientific way with always a most pleasing result to his audience.

The date for the concert which the Choral club is working hard to make a success has been set for April 4th and will be given in the auditorium of the grammar school. It will also give a concert next month in Glendale and the Glendale Music club will come to Burbank some time in the near future and entertain this city.

The Choral club was invited to sing at one of the sessions of the district convention of Woman's clubs, held at Santa Monica, but was obliged to decline the invitation.

Listening in on Eve

HIS LITTLE PLEASANTRY

"Why, Eudora!" murmured the girl with the monkey fur trimming on her hat, shifting her bead bag up her arm in order to shake hands. "What a surprise to see you! I haven't laid eyes on you for so long—but, then, I go out so much and you are such a little home body! How nice you look since you've begun to make up a tiny bit! You've just the right amount of color on and it is such an improvement!"

"I've never used a bit of rouge in my life," said the pretty little creature in the kolinsky fur wrap. "I suppose you haven't seen me because I have been away so much visiting friends. I've had a gorgeous time."

"I'm so glad you have!" sympathetically commented the girl with the monkey fur hat trimming. "It's time you had a little enjoyment out of life. Isn't this rose and gold brocade simply stunning?"

"Yes; but I never buy goods at $20 a yard," said the pretty girl in the kolinski. "I never saw you wear it, either. It is so mature in its effect. But I think it would be lovely for you. Alicia! I'd rather have more dresses and less costly ones!"

"Oh, your party gowns must last a long, long time," said the girl with the monkey fur hat. "It must be such a relief to buy one new frock a season and let it go at that! I am thinking of having a black velvet one now—there is a sale at only $14 a yard, my dear. I am especially anxious to have something stunning for the next club dance—I don't suppose you are going, now that Arthur has left town. He was always so nice about taking you around. Of course, Arthur is a poor dancer and is so tiresome as a conversationalist that any one with a chance to have any other escort wouldn't think of being bored with him, but it gave you a little change and taste of the gay life!"

"What's happening at the next club dance?" asked the pretty little thing, a bit wide-eyed.

The girl with the bead bag and monkey fur hat smiled. "Nothing much," she said kindly. "Mabel's brother Charlie has a guest coming for that week who is rather important and he'll be in Mabel's party at the dance, and, as I am going with her brother, naturally I'll meet him, and first impressions always count for so much, don't you think? Charlie says he is wonderful and that he is just impervious to women! He has never cared anything about them and he is twenty-nine. So it is about time he woke up and noticed one of us!"

"How are you going to do it?" asked the pretty little thing with considerable interest.

"Why, I have no intention of trying to attract him!" protested the girl with the bead bag indignantly. "Of course, men do have the craziest fashion of picking me out of a whole roomful and asking to be introduced, and it is only natural to suppose that—don't you think that black velvet draped beautifully and without a single ornament would be marvelous on me? When you have white shoulders there is nothing like a low-cut black velvet. Charlie let drop that he had a $15,000 position, with more ahead, and the loveliest car."

"Where did you say he lived?" asked the pretty little thing, shifting her kolinsky wrap.

"He is one of the most popular bachelors in Detroit," her friend told her. "I just adore Detroit—not that I expect to live there, but stranger things do happen, you know! And I have the oddest feeling that some day soon I'm going to be there! It's too bad you can't be at the dance, Eudora."

"Oh, but I'm going to the dance," the pretty little thing told her. "I'm downtown today to have a fitting for my gown."

"You are—wh-why, how nice!" said her friend, in surprised tones. "I supposed you had your clothes all made in the house—not but that they're very sweet and pretty and look well on you, Eudora. Who on earth are you going with, with Arthur gone and everything?"

The pretty little thing looked most angelic. "I'm going with Robert Embers from Detroit," she explained. "That was one of the places I visited this summer—"

"But that's Charlie's friend!" exploded the girl with the monkey fur hat. "That's the big one—— Why, he's never liked girls——"

"Well," chirped the pretty little thing, "he likes one now—I'm engaged to him, Alicia, and we're going to tell people the night of the dance! And I'll be sure to invite you to visit me in Detroit, too!"

"Why, this is perfectly—" gasped the girl in the monkey fur hat. "I never heard anything like it in my life! The idea!"

FIRST BAPTISTS TO HOLD REVIVAL

Arrangements are being completed for the series of evangelistic meetings that will start at the First Baptist church, corner Wilson and Louise streets, on Wednesday evening, March 29. The membership of this church has for the past several weeks been holding cottage prayer meetings preparatory to this series of meetings.

These meetings, which will continue until April 16, will be under the direction of Dr. Holmes and Prof. Stout, both regular evangelistic workers of the Baptist denomination.

OXIDE GAS PLANT ESTABLISHED HERE

Dr. Baxter Will Make An Aesthesia for Medical Use

Dr. Donald E. Baxter, formerly of the Rockefeller Foundation, has purchased a large residence with spacious grounds at 910 North Brand boulevard, where he is now installing a plant for the manufacture of oxide gas, which is used as anaesthesia by doctors and dentists.

"Who is the wiseest man mentioned in the scriptures?" asked a teacher of one of her Sunday school class.

"Paul," exclaimed the little fellow, confidently.

"Oh, no, Johnnie. Paul was a very good man, but Solomon is mentioned as the wisest man."

"Well, my father says Paul was the wisest man because he never married, and I think my father ought to know," replied the boy.

The wife was greatly pleased with her success at the woman's meeting. On her return home she said to her husband: "Yes, I was absolutely outspoken at the meeting this afternoon."

Her husband looked incredulous. "I can hardly believe it, my dear," he said. "Who in the world was it that outspoken you?"

HOW THE RAVEN PALAVERED OVER SHEM

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"You know how wise old Daddy Crow can look?" the red dog took up his tale again. "Well, the raven looked twice as wise on account of his black feather beard; it really was very much like Shem's. And you know how polite and pleasant Daddy Crow can be? Well, that raven was twice as nice to Shem. He made Shem think the Art couldn't float without him. And with every one else on board being so rude, of course Shem liked to listen to him.

"'Sure, and it's you are the busy man,' the bad bird would say. 'If it wasn't for you the Lord knows what we'd be coming to. Your father is a grand man and a grand captain. But, meaning no disrespect to his honor, he's that taken up with watching the sky you'd think 'twas the sun and the stars he was steering forby 'tis this ship.' (The Ark was little more than a scow with a cabin, but the raven always called it a ship; it made Shem feel more important.) 'Aw, Mister Noah doesn't be seeing what you're doing at all. As our old flight-leader used to say when the flock was winging, "He's got his eye on the next roost but he makes no account of the wind at all." (Meaning he knows what he wants to do but not how to do it.)'

"Then Shem would sigh and feel sorry for himself because he was so put upon, and glad that he had some one to appreciate him.

"Of course, the raven was fixing to get out of his cage. So the next thing he says, says he, 'Terrible untidy these decks do be getting the way the world and his wife traipses over them. Your brother Ham mislaid his broom until the spiders had built them a wee home and he hadn't the heart to be after disturbing them.' (It was his left handed way of saying Ham was plain lazy.) 'You'd think the rats and mice would think more of their duty. As for the cockroaches, black shame to them for pretending they're afraid of being stepped on. If I could be setting them a bit of an example, now and again——?'

"Of course, Shem let him, though it was full against Mister Noah's orders. But precious little he did save to creep here and flit there listening to everything other folks were saying. Then he'd tattle it to Shem—all twisted up. And Shem would believe him, forgetting that folks who tell tales to you before your face will tell them on you behind your back. The nearest truth that wicked bird ever let slip was what he'd whisper to his wife in the dead of night, when he'd think nobody heard him. But some one did."

"Who?" interrupted the Widow Squirrel.

"Who? You'd never guess. And this isn't the time for telling." The red dog grinned to himself.

Next Story: HOW THE PIG GOT A CURL IN HIS TAIL.

A man visited the village shoe store and purchased a pair of shoes. A day or two afterwards he encountered the shopkeeper, who asked him if the shoes were comfortable.

"Oh, yes," was the reply; they're quite comfortable."

"Well," said the vendor, "if that is so why do you shuffle along so slowly?"

"Oh," said the yokel, "that's because you forgot to cut the string which tied them together."

Weigh the average man and he will be found wanting—the earth.

Chicago's Prettiest Girl Becomes Bride

Miss Marcella Kinard, crowned queen of Chicago's Pageant of Progress last year, has just become the bride of Captain Horace E. Eakins, U. S. A. The army officer met Miss Kinard for the first time at the pageant and it was a case of love at first sight.

It's an easy matter for the girl to fall in love with a shiftless man, but when she has to take in washing to support him—aye, there's the rub.

Your Discontent

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

You write to me complaining of an inexplicable restlessness and discontent. This is not due, you are sure, to any condition of physical disease, for you feel in excellent health, and your doctor has informed you that you are indeed in excellent health.

Nor is it due to poverty, your income being more than sufficient for your immediate needs. In every way, in fact, you are comfortably situated, which makes your discontent the more mysterious to you.

"I ought to feel perfectly happy and contented," you say, "but I do not. Something seems to be missing. I am uneasy most of the time. And I am utterly at a loss to imagine what the cause can be."

Possibly it is lack of adequate occupation, fi, being among those not obliged to work, you refrain from doing work of any kind.

Idleness would be enough to make any man thoroughly discontented. This because to idle is to go contrary to one of the basic instincts—the instinct to achieve—which every normal human being brings with him into the world.

Or, if you are a worker, it may be that your discontent is rooted in failure on your part either to make the most of your possibilities as a worker or to make proper use of your leisure.

Those whose minds and hearts are not in their work are likely, indeed, to be a prey to discontent. They are the more likely to be this if numbered among those to whom lesiure is merely synonymous with time-killing.

One of the great purposes of leisure is to afford opportunity for cultural and spiritual development. Such development is as real a need in all men and women as the need to engage in productive work.

Those who fail entirely to give thought to what may well be termed the finer realities, who make no effort to cultivate in themselves an enlightened interest in things of the mind and the spirit, cannot possibly escape discontent. Inevitably they degenerate into mere pleasure-seekers, and pleasure-seeking is of all occupations the most certain to create, soon or late, dissatisfaction with life and with one's self.

Or, finally, it may be that the discontent of which you complain is rooted in selfishness. This is a lamenatbly common cause of discontent, and it is one certain to cause discontent when present in any marked degree.

As I have repeatedly insisted in earlier writings, there is an altruistic as well as a self-regarding instinct. Over-development of the latter invariably means undue repression of the former. But all instincts must be given adequate expression if life is to be really satisfying.

Hence discontent is an inevitable penalty of selfishness. And not until the self-seeking activities are in due measure replaced by activities of a self-forgetting altruism can the discontent thus caused be cured.

All of which means that if you really would escape from the discontent which torments you, you must give some time to honest self-scrutiny. Study your behavior and your dominant motives. In some faulty mode of thinking and behaving the source of your discontent is to be found.

That you may set down as certain.

A Year Ago Today

(From the Glendale Daily Press for March 19, 1921)

Women's missionary society of the Congregational church entertains 85 guests at dinner last night in the church dining room. Charles Guthrie, acting as toastmaster called upon various guests for Irish stories and the Rev. Calderwood spoke on the necessity of the church doing its full share of missionary work. In honor of St. Patrick's day the dining room was decorated in green.

A party of citizens endorsed the candidacy of Captain Thomas D. Whatson and W. R. Phelon for seats on the Glendale Union high school board. A delegation of ex-service men also endorsed Captain Thomas D. Watson and Dr. Harry V. Brown for seats on the board.

On Friday night the American Legion, Glendale Post, entertained with a high jinks. Boxing bouts were the feature of the evening.

Recommendations were made to the board of trustees that Dr. J. E. Eckles, city health officer, be authorized to employ an assistant to help with the work of the department and that the department be moved into the city hall.

MAXWELL THE HIT OF GLENDALE ROAD SAYS CLARK

"The 1922 Maxwell is going big in Glendale," said Lyman P. Clark, salesmanager for the Glendale Motors company, local agent for the Maxwell, "in fact it is the beneral belief that no car has ever made such a decided 'hit' in Glendale. Some idea as to how rapidly these cars are being snatched up by Glendale people may be gained by noticing the large number of new Maxwells on the streets these days. It is keeping us busy every minute of the time taking and filling orders. The beautiful new lines of the Maxwell and the superior working parts are responsible for the popularity of the 1922 Maxwell. The motor has not been changed in the least. This was thought by the manufacturers as entirely unnecessary owing to the fact that the Maxwell motor already holds the world's non-stop record of 22,000 miles. This is the type of motor that is put in every Maxwell car."

TUJUNGA SCOUT CANDIDATES ARE NUMEROUS

Forty Apply and Twenty-four Admitted to First Troop

Tujunga is getting in the van of progress in boy scoutdom. A troop has been organized there, the second since the formation of the Verdugo Hills district council in January, and American Legion men of Tujunga are sponsoring the movement.

Over forty boys from the Tujunga district applied for membership and of this number 24 were selected to join the troop. It is hoped to organize another troop in this district as soon as the leadership and responsible institution can be be procured to sponsor it. While the new troop is under the sponsorship of the American Legion, three representative citizens have been selected for the troop committee namely, Richard Smith, M. E. Hill and Leo L. Lang, all residents of Tujunga.

The direct supervision of the troop, however, will be in charge of Scoutmaster B. J. Maxwell, a world war veteran of high character and ability to lead boys, who will be assisted by Robert Walker and Clorey Pinto. The officers of the troop have applied for a charter from the national council of the Boy Scouts of America which will be officially presented to the troop Thursday evening, March 23rd, by Scout Commissioner Nathan Rigdon on behalf of the Verdugo Hills district council. Following the presentation Scout Executive Harold Benner will speak to the boys and their parents on the possibilities of Scouting. The troop will meet every Thursday evening in Bolton hall from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

La Crescenta

LA CRESCENTA, March 20.—La Crescenta was visited by a rain and wind storm Thursday which registered 1.69 inches. The rain fall data for La Crescenta this season is 37.12 inches.

"Cuddle Doon" the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas, noted for its gracious hospitality and the charm of its many informal affairs, was the scene of a delightful tea last Sunday afternoon. The guests included Mayor and Mrs. Cryer of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mary Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Burke Holladay, Miss E. Holladay and Burke Holladay, Jr., Mrs. Kate Greenleaf Locke of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Flagg of San Gabrile, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Harrison, Mrs. J. T. Fitzgerald, Mrs. A. V. Andrews, Miss Ruth Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo Morgan of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Cosmo Morgan, Sr., of San Francisco. The tea table was most attractive almond blossoms being used decoratively.

Fred H. Anderson, the popular realtor of Montrose and La Crescenta, who has been ill the past two weeks, is reported much improved and hopes to be out again the later part of the next week.

In the future Montrose will have the Glendale Press delivered instead of the Pasadena Post. The residents of Montrose have long wanted the Glendale Press on account of their close association with Glendale. Lawrence Potter Jr., has added Montrose to his territory for delivery.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

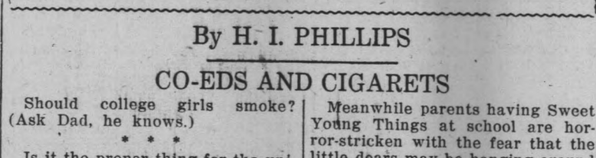
JAMES W. FOLEY

THE DEFEAT OF MARCO BOZZARIS

'Twas Recitation Day in school and every lad and lass
Had learned some telling piece to speak, of all the younger class;
The air with solemn tones was filled as one by one they came
Those boys and girls, with ardor thrilled, so bravely to disclaim;
And "Break, Break, Break," the wild waves did upon the shores of sea,
"Friends, Romans, Countrymen" were there—"The boy, Oh, where was he?"
And Tom Gibbs cried "Excelsior" in such a noble way,
Although we could not hear what other words he had to say.

Then Billy Blake marched bravely forth, and of that noble band
Marco Bozzaris led he spake, and home and native land.
"When Greece, her knee in suppliance bent should tremble at his power—"
He knew the line full well but quite forgot it in that hour.
And so he said "When Greece, her knee—" and paused a bit and then
Went back and in a moment said "When Greece, her knee—" again,
And Tommy Gibbs from his front seat with solemn tones and slow
Said "Bill, just grease her knee again and maybe she will go."

Alas, poor Billy Blake turned red as Tommy's voice rang out,
While through the room a rising storm of titters ran about;
Until poor Billy fled the spot and for an hour staid hid
As I am sure not once in life Bozzaris ever did.
And for a week the teacher kept Tom Gibbs in after school
An hour each day to give, she said, his wits a chance to cool.
"Bill might have won the fight," said Tom, "if he had heeded me
When he got stuck and staid right there a while and greased her knee."



The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

CO-EDS AND CIGARETS

Should college girls smoke? (Ask Dad, he knows.)

* * *

Is it the proper thing for the university flapper to "walk a mile for a Tamel"?

* * *

Should Fair Co-eds carry matches?

Is the girl student more interested in the mastery of foreign tongues than in the mastery of the well-known tobacco that "will not bite any tongue?"

These are questions now agitating educational circles as a result of disclosures that the young women at several co-educational institutions smoke quite openly and even save the coupons.

Smoking is frankly admitted by the girls in at least one eastern co-educational institution. Western colleges have come forth with an indignant denial that their young women smoke at all. To which the eastern girls make the retort: "What of it? We eastern girls could always blow rings around our western sisters, anyhow."

Meanwhile parents having Sweet Young Things at school are horror-stricken with the fear that the little dears may be hanging around the United Cigar Stores, possibly experimenting with long black panatellas instead of sticking to their Virgil.

Little do they know that many a college girl thinks Virgil is some Egyptian cigaret maker and that the Odyssey is the name of a new cigar.

There is every probability that the phrase "America in the making" may be changed to "America in the 'makings'" if the cigaret craze goes much further in this country.

* * *

Courses in Elemental Inhaling may be demanded by the girls at any moment, with special instruction in Blowing Smoke Through the Nose, Making Circles, and Rolling Their Own for the more advanced smokers.

* * *

The endowment of co-educational institutions by the American Tobacco company is not unlikely.

This may be found in the news any day:

It was announced by the death of Linoleum University today that the Duke-Whalen interests had made a gift of $2,000,000 for the building of a magnificent new lecture hall. Electric cigaret lighters will be attached to each and every desk. Dainty ash trays also will be included, and there will be a drawer for "butts." In short, everything that has to do with the comfort of the girl smoker will be provided.

The building itself will be of Egyptian design and will be topped by the largest electric light sign that ever flashed a cigarette advertisement. It will be surrounded by a large board fence carrying all the latest posers issued by the tobacco interests.

And why bother giving the girls a diploma at the graduation exercises? You can't smoke a sheepskin with any satisfaction. Give her a five-pound jar of tobacco or a carton of Turkish cigarettes!

We never saw it rain cats and dogs, but have often seen people hail street cars.

Stinginess and thrift are as different as they are similar.

Your Kind of Battery Needs Our Kind of Service

To get all the miles and months out of your battery it must have proper care from the very first day you put it in service.

That means having water put in at least twice a month, and seeing to it that the charge is kept up to the proper point.

Also to come straight to Battery Headquarters the minute you suspect your battery isn't up to the mark.

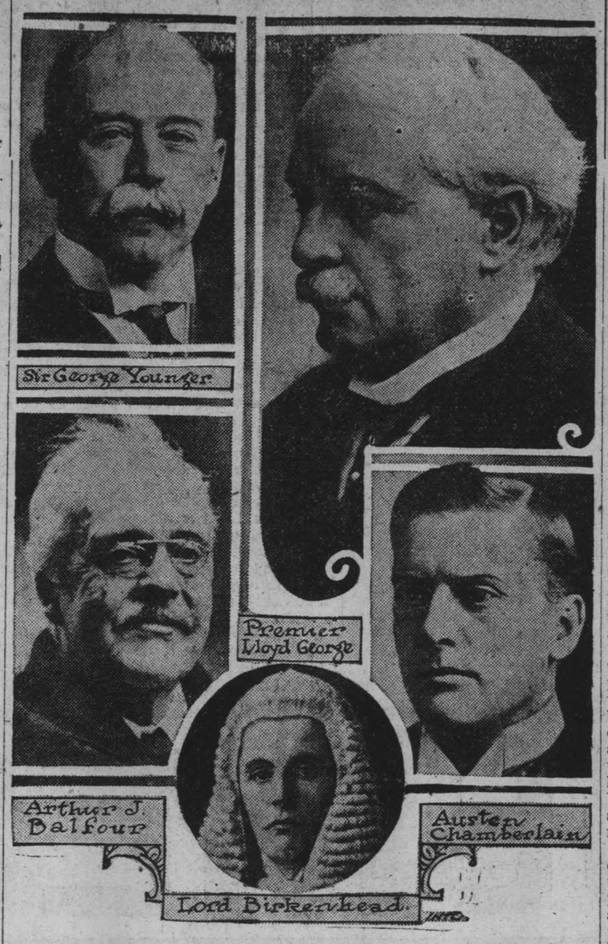
POSSIBLE RESIGNATION OF LLOYD GEORGE TEMPORARILY AVERTED



The possible resignation of Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain has been temporarily averted by efforts of his colleagues to have political foes of the prime minister adopt a conciliatory attitude. The political crisis which caused Lloyd George to threaten resignation in a letter to Austen Chamberlain has not completely passed, however. The premier is fighting the hardest battle of his political career. His adherents claim he will win. It is predicted, however, that in the event he loses he mght be succeedd by Arthur J. Balfour, former premier, who headed the British delegation to the Washington Arms Conference, or Austen Chamberlain, leader in the House of Commons. Lord Birkenhead, who has enjoyed a meteoric rise in British politics, is also said to be a possibility for premier. Sir George Younger, "Unionist boss," grouped around Lloyd George with the aforementioned notables, is openly hostile to the retention of the present premier.

GLENDALE ARTIST EXHIBITS WORK IN LOS ANGELES

F. Grayson Sayre Shows Many Colorful Pictures of So. California

An exhibit of very beautiful water color landscapes by F. Grayson Sayre of Glendale, has just closed at the art museum in Exposition Park. Some of the landscapes are colorful Arizona scene, but subdued to a key of which one would never tire. Others are from our own locality in Southern California, "Big Tujunga," "Road to Griffith Park," "Selvas Verdugo," etc. Glendalians who visited these and the traveling exhibit of pictures by western artists shown at the same time, felt very proud of their townsman.

AUTO SALES SHOWN BY BATTERY RUSH

"The best barometer of the automobile business is the activity that is found in connection with the storage battery business," said Cizek, of the E. W. Cizek Autoelectric company, 300 South Brand boulevard. "We are doing more business today than we have ever done and this shows us that there is something doing every day so far as the sale of automobiles is concerned.

"The Cizek Autoelectric company is the only exclusive automobile electric service company in Glendale. We repair all makes of generators and starters, adjust headlights, etc. Our electrical department is under the direction of a skilled workman, William P. Cook, who for four years was head of the electrical department of the Cadillac Motor company of Detroit, and was also for several years with the Delco company of the same city.

"We toot our own horn because our service is the best, and because we like it ourselves. I want to say that the automobile dealers in Glendale are the best bunch of 'regular fellows' to be found anywhere."

GOLDEN RULE IS REALTOR'S SLOGAN

J. P. Lampert and John Yung have opened real estate offices across from the city hall at 622 East Broadway, and will operate under the firm name of "Golden Rule Real Estate Offices."

Mr. Lampert has been in business in Glendale for a long time, and Mr. Yung is a cousin of his who has just arrived in Glendale from Nebraska, where he was in the banking and real estate business for fifteen years. At one time he held a position as postmaster of his home town for nine years. He is thoroughly familiar with the real estate game.

This firm has taken a five-year lease on their present quarters. In all of their business transactions they expect to follow their "Golden Rule" motto.

Better a good-paying job than a low-salaried position.

T. D. & L. STAGES CLOSE OF MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Manager Ralph Allen to Give His Auditorium for Rally

Much interest has attended the music memory contest which has been conducted in Glendale the past six weeks under the auspices of the Glendale Music club and which is to terminate in a demonstration concert at which numbers selected from the list of forty musical compositions featured in the contest will be played and prizes awarded to those who name corectly the largest numbers of compositions and composers.

As some of the numbers were composed especially for the organ, it has been the great desire of Mrs. Dora Gibson, who has directed the contest and her associates, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mrs. Spencer Robinson and others, that the concert should be given where a fine organ would be available.

That hope has been realized. Ralph Allen, manager of the T. D. & L. theatre announces that his auditorium will be turned over for a big rally and grand finale of "Music Week" next Saturday morning from 10 a. m. to 12:30.

All the musical clubs of Glendale have ben especially invited to be present and all music lovers, whether members of clubs or not will be welcomed.

Glendale is making a brave showing in celebration of Music Week and this concert and presentation of awards to those who have familiarized themselves with the list of forty representative compositions, will be a fitting climax.

WALLY REID ONLY TODAY AT T. D. L.

With Wallace Reid in a most suitable role, Lois Wilson as his leading woman and a splendid cast including Lionel Belmore, Henry Miller, Jr., Helen Dunbar, S. J. Sandford and Guy Oliver, "The World's Champion," the new Paramount picture which was shown at the T. D. & L. theatre yesterday, is living up to its name.

The hero is the battling son of a meek, nobility-worshiping British commoner. There are three fistic encounters—the first when the son pays informal court to a lady and daughter of the nobility and is attacked for his forwardness by her escort, Lord Brockington, and thrashed; the second, a ring bout wherein the hero wins the middleweight championship while in America and the third battle with Lord Brockington in which the now trained fighter returns him a dose of his own medicine.

Mr. Reid is in his usual good form as a love-maker and the picture is not lacking in romance. The characters, all English humorous types, provide a wealth of rare humor and are well portrayed.

This picture will be shown for the last times tonight.

Aim at the top. It may help you to land in the middle.

A Question of Conscience

By JOHN BRECK

A pert-eared collie cut down to lap-dog size, his piebald coat of black and white a-curl with vitality, dancing feet and a rogueish eye—that is Tommy. A Japanese shepherd dog by blood, he is completely naturalized. His are the free-and-easy manners of Arizona, where he was born, and the expansive tastes which make town life cramping. So if he greets you with much canine conversation you might as well go along and let him show off a few cowboy tricks on the skittish heifer in a neighboring field. But if he gives you only a preoccupied tailwag and moseys right on, as one having an end in view, you should say severely, "Hey, dog, to the tankhouse with you!"

For Tommy is given to sprees. Being very distinctive from the rest of the canine world, he is easily traced. But, being so seductive, he finds the world a pleasant place to ramble in; he can always flatter somebody's cook, or the chop suey man, or a rancher's wife, into attending to his simple wants, and days may pass before he feels the need of his own doorstep to lie on. And the punishment for these lapses from duty is incarceration in the tank-house.

He is occasionally locked up there for another reason. He is part of a game which requires a villain (whom no child desires to be) to shout defiance from his tower at the beleaguering hosts of an avenging enemy. Tommy, the actor, rants and raves, delighted to hold the center of the stage. Whereas, Tommy, the sinner, is a still, pensive soul, with guilt and regret written all over him.

That he knows the difference is doubly plain since he retires into voluntary confinement after other peccadillos. Is he caught shaking a silly hen or humorously denying the cats a dish he would turn up his nose at, there he slinks, even though it was not specifically ordered.

But sin is insidious. A sentimental adventure lured Tommy into an absence he seemed to feel unforgivable. He was seen sneaking homeward through the back fields but he failed to put in an appearance. And his family mourned him as one lost in bitter truth.

Late that night there was a mysterious scraping at the despised leavings of the cats. An humble figure crawled dejectedly tankward. There, in the noble stronghold of his gala performances, it pointed a longing nose toward the luxurious house whose rights it had forfeited. And there the discovered prodigal squirmed as if literally he wore the hair-shirt of the penitent. Yet they say dogs have no conscience.

To the elderly spinster's amazement the young man in the sitting room suddenly threw himself upon his knees as she entered.

"Miss Oldcake," said he, "will you be my wife?"

"Yes, Mr. Nutt," replied she, gasping for breath. "But, really, I thought all along that you had serious designs on my younger sister."

"I have," was the rejoinder, as the youth rose to his feet. "I'm only practising now!"

Pat Murphy was a great favorite in the works. Even his employer would sometimes stop and crack a joke with him.

One day the boss met Pat.

"Morning, Pat," he said. "I hear that lately you've taken quite a fancy for the girls."

Pat blushed and sniggered.

"Have you not met your fate yet?" asked the boss.

"Sure and begorrah, sir," exclaimed Pat sadly. "I met one of her father's shoes last noight."

A man acts small, makes a big mistake.

An ounce of common sense is worth a pound of book learning.

WE'RE ALL SO FOND of Angel Cake—that it was a perfect joy to find that the SANITARY HOME BAKERY, of 1102 East Broadway have made improvements on the famous Angel cakes which they bake. Ye see, so often the feathery lightness of these cakes, become quite leathery when they are cut—and so the Sanitary Bakery have been experimenting with recipes to do away with this. And now—they've the most delicious and quite the lightest and fluffiest cakes I've ever tasted—both chocolate and vanilla icings—and in the large and small sizes. They are 15c the cut, and 30c and 80c the cake. They remain open on Sundays, too-

BRANDY SAUCE

One-fourth cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons brandy, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1-2 cup milk or cream. Cream the butter and sugar, add the eggs and brandy and a little nutmeg. Cook over hot water until it thickens like custard.

BARBARA HAS CHOSEN Monday to shop for you, Mrs. Glendale, because on that day it has been her experience, most cupboards are bare. And, oh! how she loves to visit here and there in the markets and stores, always searching for dainty and tempting eatables to grace your table. But one difficulty faces her now—and that is, the finding of orginial and tasty recipes! One so often tires of preparing food in the same way, and it would be so much better enjoyed if fixed just a little bit differently. Don't you suppose my dear, that somewhere in that old cook book or in the drawer of your desk you might find the recipe for that mayonnaise dressing or that wonderful pudding your friends always enjoy so thoroughly? If you will simply send it to Barbara's Basket, care of The Press, she will most certainly appreciate it!

I'VE SPENT A MOST INTERESTING half hour at the VIRGINIA BAKE SHOP, 634 East Broadway, today, learning all about the making of bread. And now, of one thing I'm certain—the Virginia Bake Shop put all of the materials and quality into the bread itself—not in fancy wrappers and decorations. Their loaves are always just a trifle overweight, I've discovered—and exceptionally well-baked!

Carefully break 1 egg at a time into a frying pan partly filled with salted water nearly boiling hot; baste with the water until white is firm; serve boiling hot. Milk may be used instead of water.

EVER SINCE I HAD THE PLEASURE of going through the big kitchen of the GATEWAY MARKET BAKERY, the corner of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, I've been glad to buy my bread, rolls, pies and cakes and cookies there—for I know that it is absolutely pure and healthful, made of the best materials and baked right! Their kitchen is just as clean and spic and span as the kitchens in the homes of any of your friends—and as for quality, well "it simply can't be beat!" But don't take my word for it—stop in and see for yourself—just ask to be shown through the kitchen, when you are shopping at the GATEWAY MARKET next time—they'll be delighted to have you inspect it!

LEG OF LAMB

Wash and remove all stringy substances from a leg of lamb; put blutter in your roaster and place on top of range, sear the lamb on both sides; then place roaster in the oven with bottom barely covered with water, and roast slowly for about 3 hours, basting every 15 minutes.

REALLY, my dear, I don't know what I should do, if the PURITY BAKERY, 718 East Broadway, didn't remain open on Sundays. Now, for instance, on a pleasant day such as yesterday, when we decide to take our lunch on a picnic—I can just send to the Purity Bakery and buy several loaves of fresh-baked bread, and a delicious home-made cake, as well as all sorts of tempting cookies and doughnuts. They bake fresh every morning, using only the very best of ingredients and baking everything under the latest improved sanitary methods. Make the Purity Bakery a Sunday habit—you'll always have the best and freshest then!

SHRIMP SALAD

To one cup of shrimps add one cup chopped celery, three hard boiled eggs, a few English walnut meats and pour mayonnaise dressing over all just before serving. Rinse shrimps in ice water before using and be sure to keep all thoroughly chilled; serve on lettuce leaf.

EVERY HOUSEWIFE IN GLENDALE, I believe, is familiar with the Caswell quality meats! Then you'll surely be interested in knowing that the GATEWAY MEAT MARKET is conducted by Mr. Caswell—(yes, THE Mr. Caswell)—maintaining his usual standand of fair prices and incomparable quality! Why, even the wonderful sausage we buy there, is, I think, a wee bit better than others—because, you see, they make it themselves! There's one thing, when you phone Glendale 2361-W, and order the meat for dinner, you are assured of the best quality, moderate prices, and excellent delivery service as well as immediate attention!

PLAIN SAUCE

One cup water, 1-2 cup sugar 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla or lemon. Mix the sugar and cornstarch, add the water and boil five minutes. Remove from the fire and add the butter and flavoring.
